Software Development Services

Microsoft Great Plains provides a wide variety of tools to integrate and customise Dynamics and eEnterprise solutions. These include Modifier, Report Writer, VBA and Dexterity, the development environment for the core Microsoft Great Plains products.

Some of these tools are easily accessible to trained end-users and implementers; others, notably Dexterity, require specialised skills and extensive training in order to be applied effectively and efficiently.

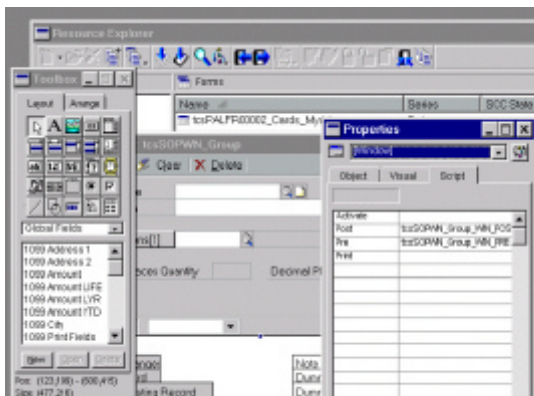

Track Record

Trinity Computer Services has been in business for over twenty years providing software and implementation services for the financial and distribution sectors. The company has established an enviable reputation with its own market-leading products including DrinkMaster and FoodTrader.

Since becoming a Microsoft Great Plains Partner in mid 1999 Trinity has embarked upon a major Dexterity based development project aimed at producing the definitive leading-edge solution for the distribution marketplace. The first results of this were unveiled and enthusiastically received at the Great Plains UK Partner Conference in December 2000.

In June 2001, Trinity sold the Advanced Pricing application to Microsoft Great Plains, who are to include Advanced Pricing functionality as an add-on application to its eEnterprise Inventory Control application within the Distribution Series.

As well as providing a range of specialist add-on modules, Trinity is now offering its development skills to other Microsoft Great Plains Partners to help them build winning solutions for their own customers and prospects.

Development Services

Trinity's services start with an initial outline investigation to identify the best method of approach eg front-office integration, VBA , Dexterity or some combination of these and other tools.

Trinity has Microsoft Great Plains Certified Integration Developer status and a team of five experienced Dexterity developers plus complementary skills in the other key development tools. Nine channel authorised Dexterity products have already been released with many more planned. The team is led by a highly experienced development manager and is supported by a technical author.

The scope of Trinity's involvement can be adapted to meet the needs of individual clients but could extend from initial feasibility and design through to assistance with implementation and user training if required.

With a full-time support desk, Trinity provides high-quality service to back up all of its products.
