

Forward & Scheduled Sales Orders

Keeping your customers happy means being able to respond reliably to their detailed requirements even when this involves planning deliveries for many months ahead. It is not uncommon for a customer to place an order for phased delivery over a long period of time. You need to be able to record that order quickly and easily. But what you will not want to do is tie up inventory unnecessarily and prematurely. The buyer needs to be prompted to purchase at the appropriate time to ensure that inventory is made available for the customer on a reliable just in time basis with deliveries then triggered automatically on appropriate dates.

Key Features

- New Forward Order Days Parameters Provides the facility to establish the forward order time at vendor, document type or item level
- Scheduled Order Generator Simple tool built into order entry to enable fast building of a delivery schedule for an item
- Allocation Review New routine that carries out an automated review of all outstanding order lines to identify and update sales lines that are now within the “allocation time window”
- Fulfilment Order based on Line Requested Ship Date New features of Advanced Distribution 8.0 ensure that shippable scheduled lines are converted to fulfilment orders at the most appropriate time

Application Power

- Improved Customer Satisfaction Surpass your customers expectations with the ability to schedule their orders weeks or months in advance, including part or phased deliveries
- Improved Stock Management Rather than tying in your stock to long-term or future orders, your purchasers are prompted when stock for such orders needs to be purchased, enabling you to manage your stock more effectively
- Reduce Administration Time By enabling your order takers to rapidly build delivery schedules, and automatically review sales order lines due for stock allocation, you can improve their productivity and efficiency
- Increased Synergy between Purchasing and Sales By assigning forward order days to items and vendors, you can take into account vendor and item lead times when automatically allocating stock based on delivery window dates
